Bud description

The ping-pong ball-sized buds grow mostly light-green with dark-green hues and sometimes exhibiting pink highlights that give the buds a hypnotizing appearance and reek of a sweet fruit cocktail with a strong earthy aroma. Thanks to the insane trichome production, it looks like there are trichomes growing on top of trichomes, making the buds look almost fluffy and giving them that sticky look every commercial grower seeks after.

Smoke report

Mimosa Cake Auto is a Sativa-dominant hybrid but thanks to the handpicked terpene profile, its strong Sativa high comes hand-in-hand with a nice Indica side, making it a strain suited for both day and nighttime use. When smoked too much, you may feel the cerebral high a lot more and can get you talking a lot and get the munchies, so watch out! But in moderation, you'll feel a nice body high that calms the nerves and motivates you, leaving you in a relaxed mindstate with a laser-sharp focus.

Plant appearance

This strain grows quite tall for an autoflower and develops a tall main cola that reaches up to 130cm, surrounded by multiple side branches that grow upwards in different heights, giving it a pine-like structure. You can expect a bushy plant with relatively small fan leaves and long branches that get completely enveloped in extremely dense buds and can yield up to 550gr/m2, a great autoflower for all types of growers who are looking for a top-of-the-line harvest without much maintenance or extra efforts.

Grow tips

Due to the density of the buds, we recommend providing support to the branches during the last weeks of flowering to avoid the branches from snapping. It's recommended to perform LST since early growth so the light reaches all flowering sites equally, doing this will also allow air to flow in between the buds, preventing mold and increasing the yields even further. This strain is a remarkable trichome producer, recommended for extractors and hash makers who are looking for high amounts of top-quality resin.

Flavor

This strain offers a fresh and mouth-watering terpene mix that tastes just like the cocktail; A sweet terpene mix with a strong lemon background that tastes just like it smells. You'll experience a stronger earthy and sweet floral taste on the inhale that gradually transforms into a fruity and almost tropical taste with a touch of wild berry and a pinch of sourness on the exhale. A truly delicious smoke, a must-try for fruity terpene lovers and those looking for the best terps for their extractions.
